

A world of colours

At Trapholt (Museum of Modern Art and Design) in Kolding, Denmark, you could up until recently experience the exhibition 'Verner Panton – colours in a new world'. Here, visitors got to see the world from Verner Panton's view and were invited into the expressive and unconventional designs of the colour master himself. The exhibition showcased five decades of colourful design universe within furniture, lamps, and textiles as well as sensual environments and much, much more.

In collaboration with Lower East Design (Jørgen Smidstrup) and Trapholt, we produced the colourful book for the exhibition.

A book that oozes of quality

The book was produced as a yarn-stitched full-cover with a printed and laminated cover glued on 3 mm cardboard front and back. In addition, the book came with a flat, thin spine and with a headband at the top for an extra nice finish. The book oozes of quality and fits perfectly into the exhibition's universe.

Thank you very much for the nice reception and support at the start of the printing phase – and for the professional handling of the entire process! The result is very nice! Everyone thinks that the book looks fantastic – not least us! So, thank you to Stibo Complete for the great collaboration and result.
